Hence, the Head of business unit is to act as a Risk Officer for the overall Enterprise Risk Management requirement.

The roles and functions of Risk Officer are as follow:

5. Day-To-Day Risk Management

The day-to-day Enterprise Risk Management resides with the respective business units.

The business unit's management is accountable for the comprehensiveness of the risks identified, their assessment, as well as their bottom-up reporting. Actively managing risks are the key duty of any manager. Managers shall assist risk owner in identifying, measuring, controlling, monitoring and reporting risks and have both the right and obligation to contribute to the Enterprise Risk Management.

The principle roles and responsibilities of the business unit's management are as follow:

- Manage business unit's risk profile;

The functions and responsibilities of Internal Audit are as follow:

C. ADVANCE SYNERGY BERHAD - GROUP ENTERPRISE RISK MANAGEMENT STRUCTURE

In line with the Group's corporate structure and for the purpose of Enterprise Risk Management, all subsidiary companies under the Group are divided into 9 sub-Groups based on the nature of the business and the industry that they represent.

D. RISK ASSESSMENT PROCESS

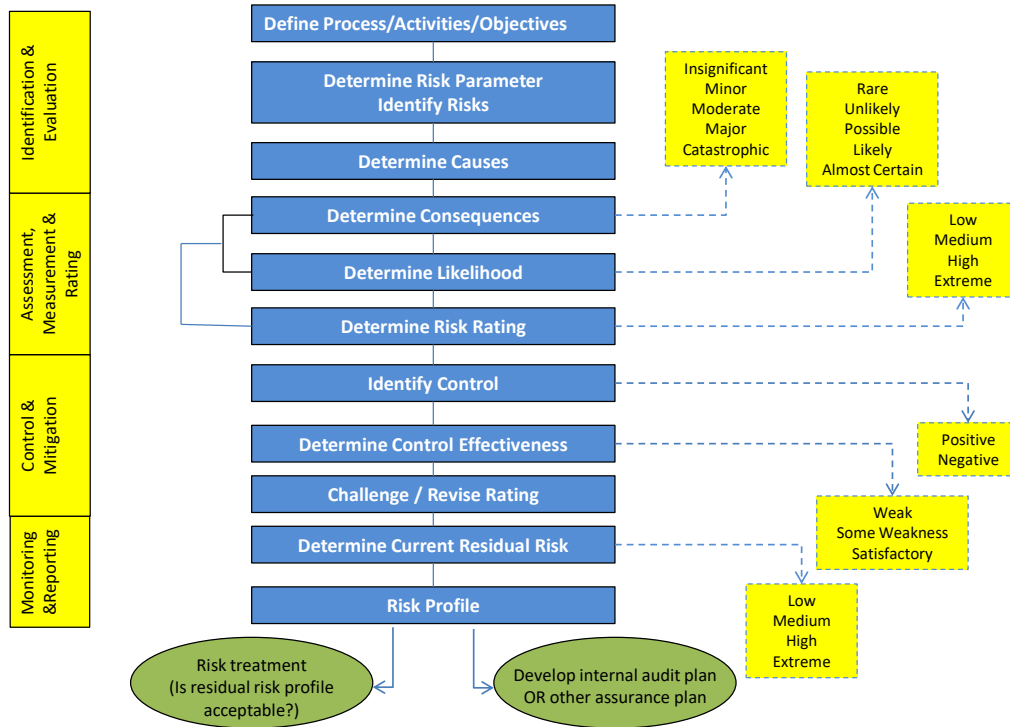

The Group has established, within its Enterprise Risk Management framework, a structured approach, which balances risks and returns, and integrates Risk Assessment Processes to achieve a more effective Enterprise Risk Management.

The steps in Risk Assessment Processes are categorised into 4 broad processes, namely;

- Risk Identification and Evaluation
- Risk Assessment, Measurement and Rating
- Risk Control and Mitigation
- Risk Monitoring and Reporting

Risk Assessment Process

1. Risk Identification and Evaluation

The first step in the Risk Assessment Process is to identify and evaluate the potential risks. This is conducted by the respective risk owners and reviewed by the respective Head of Risk Management Units.

2. Risk Assessment, Measurement & Rating

Risk assessment is a major step in the Enterprise Risk Management process. Risks are analysed, considering its likelihood and impact and determining how they should be managed. Risks are assessed on an inherent and a residual basis. Risk assessment involves the measuring of two quantities of the risk:

- The CONSEQUENCE of the risk or the magnitude of the potential loss; and
- The LIKELIHOOD of the risk or the probability of the loss that will occur.

Risk assessment may be the most important step in the risk management process that involves in assessing the risk as to their potential severity of loss and to the likelihood of its occurrence. Unfortunately, the step may also be the most difficult and prone to error. However, once risks have been identified and assessed, the steps to properly deal with them are much more programmatically.

Example

The difficulty in risk assessment is: A risk with a large potential loss and a low likelihood of occurring must be treated differently than the one with a low potential loss but a high likelihood of occurring. In theory both are of nearly equal priority and importance in treatment, but in practice, it can be very difficult to manage when faced with the scarcity of resources and time.

The methodology used to carry out Risk Assessment, Measurement and Rating involves 3 steps.

STEP 1 – Consequences Rating

All risks must be assessed individually of its CONSEQUENCES if it arises. The assessment takes into consideration of the potential loss by measuring against the financial and/or non-financial impact that the risk may have caused to the business. Therefore, the consequences of an identical/similar risk may differ from one business unit to another depending on the parameters defined on its financial and/or non-financial impact and it may also vary from period to period under review. 5 categories of CONSEQUENCES ratings were assigned; Insignificant, Minor, Moderate, Major and Catastrophic.

IMPACT	DESCRIPTION	CONSEQUENCES (expressed in %)
CATASTROPHIC	Disaster with potential to COLLAPSE.	75% and above
MAJOR	A critical event which requires EXTRA-ORDINARY management effort.	Above 50% & up to 75%
MODERATE	A serious event which requires ADDITIONAL management effort.	Above 25% & up to 50%
MINOR	An adverse event which can be absorbed with SOME management effort.	Above 10% & up to 25%
INSIGNIFICANT	Impact can be READILY ABSORBED through normal business activity.	Up to 10%

STEP 2 – Likelihood Rating

All risks must also be assessed individually of its LIKELIHOOD of occurrence. 5 categories of LIKELIHOOD ratings were assigned; Rare, Unlikely, Possible, Likely and Almost Certain.

LIKELIHOOD	DESCRIPTION	CHANCES OF OCCURENCE (expressed in %)
ALMOST CERTAIN	The event is EXPECTED to occur in most circumstances.	80% and above
LIKELY	The event will PROBABLY occur in most circumstances.	Above 50% and up to 80%
POSSIBLE	The event MIGHT occur at some time.	Above 25% & up to 50%
UNLIKELY	The event COULD occur at some time.	Above 5% and up to 25%
RARE	The event MAY occur only in exceptional circumstances.	Up to 5%

STEP 3 – Business Risk Rating

After completing Step 1 and 2, the risk must undergo quantitative risk analysis. The risk must be individually ranked by referring to the Business Risk Matrix. 4 categories of BUSINESS RISK rankings were assigned: Extreme, High, Medium and Low.

Business Risk Matrix

		MAGNITUDE OF IMPACT
		Insignificant	Minor	Moderate	Major	Catastrophic
LIKELIHOOD OF OCCURRENCE	ALMOST CERTAIN	Medium	High	High	Extreme	Extreme
	LIKELY	Medium	Medium	High	High	Extreme
	POSSIBLE	Low	Medium	High	High	High
	UNLIKELY	Low	Low	Medium	Medium	High
	RARE	Low	Low	Medium	Medium	High

3. Risk Control and Mitigation

Controls take in the form of policies and procedures established and implemented to help ensure the risk responses are effectively carried out.

All risks must undergo further analysis on the effectiveness of the controls that are in place, and/or any other additional controls that may be introduced to manage the risks. The EFFECTIVENESS of the control and risk mitigation is to be ranked and rated as: Weak, Some Weakness or Satisfactory.

It is important to note that certain risks are typically inherently high, and may not be capable of being managed to a relatively low level. It is important, nonetheless, that such risks are well understood and monitored. The Group's exposure to such risks then becomes calculated and consistent with a clearly articulated risk appetite.

4. Risk Monitoring and Reporting

The entirety of Enterprise Risk Management is monitored and modifications are made when the need arises. Monitoring is accomplished through ongoing management activities, separate evaluation, or both.

The Head of the Risk Management Unit is responsible for the status of all risks which are to be reviewed by the Group. Risks review at business unit level or at the Group level formed part of both technical and programmatic reviews.

E. Risk Profile

All risks that are identified during the Risk Assessment Process are to be recorded in the risk registers with its appropriate rating assigned to them. The collection of all risk registers are to be further compiled into a risk profile for the purpose of Risk Management Unit's review and making recommendation towards the Risk Treatment Options.

F. Risk Option Treatment

Once risks are identified, assessed and the controls introduced to manage the risks are established, the risks need to be aligned in accordance with the Group's risk tolerances and risk appetite by using the following four treatment measures:

- To terminate
- To reduce
- To accept
- To pass-on

1. Risk Termination

This measure includes not performing the activity that carries the risk. An example would be not buying a property or business in order not to take on the liability that comes with it. Termination may seem the answer to all risks, but terminating risks also means losing out on the potential gain that one would otherwise accepted the risk. Not entering a business to avoid the risk of loss also avoids the possibility of earning the profits – Opportunity Cost.

2. Risk Reduction

It involves the measures taken to reduce the severity of the loss. Examples include sprinklers designed to put out a fire to reduce the risk of loss by fire. This method may cause a greater loss by the water damage and therefore may not be suitable to reduce the risk. Halon fire suppression systems may mitigate that risk, but the cost may be prohibitive as a strategy.

3. Risk Acceptance

It involves with accepting the loss when it occurs. Risks that are not terminated reduced or pass-on is considered to be accepted by the Group.

4. Risk Pass-on

This measure involves causing another party to accept the risk. Insurance is one type of risk transfer.

G. RESPONSIBILITY FOR ENTERPRISE RISK MANAGEMENT

Everyone within the Group has some responsibility toward Enterprise Risk Management. The Board of Directors provides important oversight to Enterprise Risk Management, and is aware of and concurs with the Group's risk appetite. While managers are accountable for Enterprise Risk Management at their respective level, responsibility for good risk management philosophy; promoting compliance with its risk appetite; and managing risks within their spheres of responsibility consistent with risk tolerance now rests with every staff member of the Group.

Enterprise Risk Management is not only strictly a serial process, where one component affects the next but it is also a multidirectional, interactive process in which almost any component can and does influence another. This includes going about doing the jobs in a careful and conscientious manner that contributes to the high ethics and culture within the Group.

H. LIMITATION

While Enterprise Risk Management provides important benefits, limitation exists. In addition to factors discussed above, limitations result from the realities that human judgement in decision making can be faulty, decisions on responding to risks and establishing controls also need to consider the relative costs and benefits; breakdown can occur because of human failures such as simple errors or mistakes; and control can be circumvented by collusion by two or more people.

I. CONCLUSION

Information and communication related to Enterprise Risk Management is identified, captured and communicated in a form and in a timeframe that enable people to carry out their responsibilities. Effective communication also occurs in a broader sense, flowing down, across, and up the business entity.

With this foundation of mutual understanding, all parties will be able to speak a common language and communicate more effectively. Business executives will position their company's Enterprise Risk Management process against a standard, strengthen the process and move their enterprise toward the established goals. With all parties utilising a common Enterprise Risk Management Framework, these benefits will be realised.
